

ABAG Tranter-Leong Management Intern Program

Open Position: Tranter-Leong Management Internship

Pay Rate: $18 – $20 per Hour DOQ

Work Period: Between May and September 2007

The Tranter-Leong Management Internship Program

Revan Tranter, Executive Director Emeritus of the Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG), and Eugene Leong, former Executive Director of ABAG, have established an annual summer graduate student internship program with the objective of promoting and advancing the field of public administration and the careers of students who are pursuing graduate degrees in public policy or public administration, political science, planning, or related fields with the goal of working in local or regional government.

For more than 30 years, from 1973 to 2005, Revan A.F. Tranter and Eugene Y. Leong served as Executive Directors of ABAG and together served the agency for more than 50 years. Both desired to increase the quality and professionalism of public administrators and managers. They actively sought to expand opportunities for women and minorities in the field. Therefore, qualified women and minorities are highly encouraged to apply for this internship.

Preference will be given to Bay Area residents, without regard to ethnicity, who are interested in launching careers in public service in the Bay Area. The Management Intern's assignments and projects will be developed and overseen by ABAG's Executive Director.

About The Association of Bay Area Governments (ABAG)

ABAG is the Council of Governments and official regional planning agency for the 9 counties and 101 cities in the San Francisco Bay Area. Founded in 1961, ABAG serves as a forum for local governments to address region-wide issues and interests such as transportation, land use, housing, environmental preservation, demographic trends and economic development. In addition, ABAG service programs include financing pools, insurance pools and risk management, natural gas purchasing and energy management, online hazardous materials training, web site design and hosting, and fiscal agent services. For more information about ABAG programs, please visit the ABAG website: www.abag.ca.gov.
